The Timekeeper's Tent.

The timekeepers' tent has a computer terminal and a time clock. The time clock system shows the actual time and the time with 30 minutes added. Having both times available, takes away potential errors when writing out time slips with the time in and the latest time that a returning horse must be presented to TPR. Returning time slips use 2 part self carbonning books. A time clock screen is also located outside the timekeepers tent, in the Ride Secretary's tent and in the TPR area. The whole time clock system emanates from a single computer in the computer shed via an analog video distribution system, which means that all the clock displays are synchronised. When riders are going out, the entrant number and time are first written on a list. When the timekeepers enter information of time out or in, an automatic print out occurs on a small printer in the Secretary's tent..This saves the log books having to go to the timekeeper.
